

ARTIST RESIDENCIES

COLLEGE FOR CREATIVE STUDIES

www.collegeforcreativestudies.edu

It is often a struggle for emerging artists to find time and money to make work after graduating. Artists' residencies (also called communities, colonies, retreats, workspaces, and studio collectives) can provide you the time and space to make your work.

Residencies can vary from a week to a year. Residencies can be found in urban or rural areas, serving one artist at a time or 50. Some support one artistic genre while many are interdisciplinary, welcoming visual artists, writers, composers, choreographers, scholars and other creative individuals. There are programs that are active centers for public programs and others that offer solitude and retreat. Many provide room and board as a home-away-from-home; others offer not a place to live, but a community for local artists in which to work and be supported in the creation of new art.
